THE SPEAKING AT HARTFORD. In company with a large number of our citizens, we went on Monday to Hartford to hear the joint discussion between the candidates for Congress.

There had occurred a pleasant surprise in the course of the evening. Bloom, after an excellent dinner furnished by our old friend Edith Powell, who by the way, is a warm Republican Democrat, was reported to the scene of the town.

He closed his hour with a most thrilling and withering review of Daniel, recording including his Indianapolis speech.

When Nelson left the stand Daniel rose, presenting much the aspect of a Spanish bull, glowing in indignation by the shaking of a red rag in the face.

He then proposed 144 resolutions to Daniel and demanded, plain, full and candid answers.
